GREAT SHOOTING AT BEAVER.

There are some interesting figures about the averages of the local cricket club. The prospects of the club for next season are good. O'Rourke, of the New York ball club, talks about the Brotherhood. No Pittsburg players have signed a Brotherhood contract. There was some interesting shooting at Beaver. The running races were in-

The Pittsburg Cricket Club has definitely closed its season of 1889, and the averages of the players for the season were completed vesterday by Mr. A. Macpherson. These records contain some very interesting features, but it is not known how they will compare with those of the other clubs in the United States. They will, however, be forwarded East to-day, and will find a place in the "Cricketer's Annual for America."

The batting averages show that there has been quite a struggle for first place, but, as in are at the top, almost a tie. Young Mr. extremely busy, as the figures will show. His playing during the season has been watched with considerable interest by those interested ising young player. Burrows, the profess not show up very well in the batting table, but he tops the list among the bowlers.

NEW MATCHES PLAYED.

The club has fallen considerably short during the season in the number of matches played as compared with former years. There were various causes for this, the principal being the ilure of other clubs to make engagements and also the unfavorable weather. However, the games played by the club were victories, the two chief ones being the defeat of the Belmonts, of Philadelphia, and the Peninsular Club, of Detroit. Messrs. Penn, Macpherson clubs during the season, which goes to show that their abilities are recognized by patrons of the game both East and West and also in Canada. Wherever these gentlemen have played they have done good work and contributed considerably to the Following are the averages: BATTING AVERAGES.

During a conversation last evening Mr. Macpherson said: "There are more cricket players in and about Pittsburg now than there ever were since I knew the locality. The players are not only more numerous, but they are bet ter players than we have ever had. I feel confinent that we we'll get the best team in nent that we we'll get the best team in the country together here next season. All that we require is to have more practice and I think we will succeed next season in having that shortcoming remedied. Most certainly we will have more local games than we have had previously during a season, and it is safe to say we'll have better attractions. It is probable that there will be some prominent foreign teams here. The past season has not been a bad one for us financially. Of course we have not figured up the accounts yet, but we are all right. The fact is, however, that we don't play for financial gain. In many cases we pay our own expenses. Burrows, our professional, has been very satisfactory to us and there is no reason to think he won't be with us next season. He is a very painstaking gentleman and a good cricket player."

O'ROURKE'S POINTER.

He Intimates About the Results of the Brotherhood Meeting. PECIAL TELEGRAM TO THE DISPATCH.

NEW YORK, October 31,-The sole tonic among baseball men at present is the Brother-hood scheme. The New York players have scattered around the country, and the only one that could be seen to-day was Jim O'Rourke the New York delegate to the Brotherhood meeting on next Monday. O'Rourke, in his ented that the writers who have said the least about this great Brotherhood scheme are going to come out ahead, even if the tron ble does result in a new league. As Jim walked away, he said: "You come up to the Fifth Avenue Hotel next Monday and everything will be made plain."

The coming Brotherhood meeting of the base-ball men that has ever been held. About every baseball player now under reservation to a League club will be on hand, and although none but delegates will be allowed to vote, the advice of the outside players will be asked in many cases. In addition to the large number of League players that will be on hand there will be hundreds of American Association and minor league men about to learn the first news from the meeting. It was reported to-day that from the meeting. It was reported to-day that if the Brotherhood goes so far as to form a new league and places a club in Brooklyn, that the infield of that club will be Hines, first base; Glasscock, shortstop; Ward, second base, and Panny third base;

Giasscock, shortstop; Ware, second Denny, third base.

The managers of the Lesgue are hustling just now in order that they may be in position to fight any movement that the Brotherhood may make. Letters and telegrams are flying about by hundreds and a combination is being about by hundreds and a combination is being

THEY HAVEN'T SIGNED.

No Brotherhood Contracts Issued to the Players Yet.

THE DISPATCH is authorized to state d nitely that not a player of the local club has signed anything like a Brotherhood contract yet. A local player, speaking on this matter yesterday afternoon to the writer, said: 'On my honor I tell you that I have signed no contract to play in a Brotherhood team, and I also know that no other Pittsburg player has. This is absolutely correct. Furthermore I don't think that any player in the country has doe't think that any player in the country has signed a Brotherhood contract, simply because none have been issued. We don't know what will be done until the meetings are over. One thing I know is that our agitation has caused the League magnates to listen to us."

The above statement relating to the Brotherhood contract can be accepted as being absolutely correct. It shows conclusively that all the stories which have been current to the effect that the League players have signed to play in a new organization is entirely untrue.

Virginia Democrats Have Been Ordered t Take Their Revolvers Along Election Day - An Alleged Mahone Scheme to be Frustrated.

PERSONAL TRUEGRAM TO THE DISPANCE ! RICHMOND, VA., October 31 .- A stranger in any of the Virginia cities would imagine from the appearance of the streets that the people were not disturbed about the election, and yet the present canvass has more thoroughly wrought up the people than any since the war. For the first time the white ladies of the cities are taking a hand, and they have inaugurated a movement to get up nice snacks for the men on duty at the polls. The picturesque cavalry rides which gave Governor Fitzhugh Lee's canvass such success and fame have indeed been wanting, but the Democrats are en-gaged as well, though in a different way. The Democratic State Committee to-day tele-The Democratic State Committee to-day tele-graphed the following to every city and town n the Commonwealth:

ALEXANDRIA, VA., October 31.-Trustworthy information has reached the Democratic State

ommittee as follows:
"GENTLEMEN-I overheard some instructions given to some of Mahone's workers and think it best to let you know. They are to put in so many extra ballots at the country voting places, and they are to have some fighting men places, and they are to have some fighting men on hand and have the votes counted or the whole vote thrown out, and this is to be done at all hazard in all of the large Democratic counties. These fighting men are to be on hand at small country places where farmers are the principal voters, and they are supposed to let the vote be counted rather than have a fight, and these fighting men are instructed to stand up and make demands of "his kind and threaten to die before they see the vote thrown out, and the farmer Judges of Elections are supposed to back down rather than stand firm. The Democrats everywhere must be on guard and defy intimidation to the uttermost. By order of the committee. W. W. Scott, Basil B. Gordon, Chairman.

The meaning of this circular is that every Democrat who can master a revolver will have it convenient for use on election day, and when Mahone's fighting men attempt to carry out his programme they will be shot dead. Senator Blair, of New Hampshire, who was summoned in hot haste by Mahone to aid him, has caught some of Mahone's irritability of temper. To-day, in talking over the contests, he threatened that the na-tional election bill would be passed as the

NOT A STRONG CASE

Has Yet Been Made Out Against Senior Warden Beggs, of Camp 20, HIS BITTERNESS TOWARD CRONIN

Is All That Has Been Conclusively Proved by the State.

DIRECT EVIDENCE AGAINST OTHERS.

Detective Coughlin, in Particular, is Deeply En tangled in the Plot.

The State will be obliged to present tronger evidence against Senior Warden Beggs to prove a conspiracy to murder, as nothing but his bitter enmity to Cronin has yet been shown. Against Coughlin and others, however, the testimony is more direct, and shows that there was a previous attempt to take the doctor's life.

ISPECIAL TELEGRAM TO THE DISPATCE. CHICAGO, October 31 .- Senior Warden leggs, who, it is claimed by the State, apointed the secret committee which virtually sealed the doom of Dr. Cronin, was again attacked by the prosecution to-day, but not in such a way as to prove snything criminal against him. The testimony came from William O'Keefe and Cornelius Flinn, who were in the Cronin faction of the Clan-na-Gael. It merely proved that which Mr. Foster, the attorney for Beggs, does not attempt to deny and that is that the Senior Warden was an ardent admirer of Alexander Sullivan, and an opponent of the dead doctor, for the reason that the latter was waging war against the triangle composed of Sullivan, desperate attempt to accumulate evidence to show that Beggs was a bitter and merci-less enemy of Dr. Cronin, that he de-nounced him in and out of the camp, and that when the storm of February 8 burst in the den in the Northside Turner Hall he was heart and hand in the motion to investigate the doctor for alleged treasonable

MUST HAVE STRONGER EVIDENCE. Thus far, however, there has been no estimony introduced that could possibly be construed as implicating the Senior Warden in a conspiracy. Coughlin, Burke and O'Sullivan, whose mysterious conduct before and after the disappearance of Dr. Cronin is fortunately not concealed by iron-clad oath and evasive answers of the Clanna-Gael, are being more intimately associated with the plot as the State proceeds with the terrible recital of the case.

The testimony against Coughlin to-day did not all come from the better element of society, but it went far to prove that the detective, while drawing a salary from the city, spent much of his time in saloons and in preaching against Dr. Cronin. One night in March of this year Coughlin, in a harangue over the approaching municipal election, declared that if a certain Catholic on the Northside did not stop talking so much he would get the worst of it.

He was then speaking to O'Sullivan in a saloon on East Chicago avenue. Bartender George Riley and James Quinn heard the threat. Mr. Forrest, in his cross examination of these witnesses, tried to wipe out the IMPORTANCE OF THIS TESTIMONY drawing from the witnesses admissions that Catholicity played a prominent part in the municipal election, and that Coughlin's remarks on that night related solely to the political situation, and not to the affairs of the Clan-na-Gael. The State maintains that the prominent Northside Catholic who was talking so much about that time was Dr. Cronin, and that Coughlin's threat, whether made in the course of a political or a Clan-na-Gael discussion, showed the violent hatred the detective had for the doctor. Another broadside of testimony against the big detective, the effect of which the big detective, the effect of which on the jury was merely speculative, came from "Major" John W. Sampson a self-confessed criminal and gambler, who swore that two years ago Coughlin approached him at La Salle avenue and Eric street with a proposition to lay in am-buscade near the Windsor Theater and slug Dr. Cronin as he returned home at night. Sampson thought the contemplated crime too dangerous, but Coughlin being desirous the work should be done, and done well, suggested that his comrade get another man to assist him in the slugging. During this interview William Lynn, a friend of "Major" Sampson stood upon a corner on the opposite side of the street. Lyun testi-fied to the meeting of Coughlin and Samp-

THE DEFENSE AT WORK. Both witnesses were subjected to a merciless cross-examination by Mr. Forrest. Sampson was forced to admit having a most extraordinary criminal career, and possess-ing no visible means of support. He had en a shell worker, and was ffrequently arrested by Coughlin on charges of robbery and vagrancy. The witness denied, how-ever, that he had been convicted on these charges, and declared, with much evidence of passion, that Coughlin's pursuit of him was in nature of persecution. The young man was intensely nervous, but he succeeded in rattling the cross-examiner for the prisoners, and provoking an outburst of applause, when in reply to a declaration by Mr. Forrest that shell playing was a felony, he exclaimed that it was not murder, anvhow. Patrick McGarry, who occupied the chair ratrick incoarry, who occupied the chair at the time of the adjournment last night, was the first witness. Mr. Donahue, of counsel for the defense, moved to strike out all that part of McGarry's evidence given yesterday, in which McGarry described his visit to the house of Defendant O'Sullivan after IDr. Cronin's murder, and at which time household O'Sullivan laster the constituted O'Sullivan laster the constit time he questioned O'Sullivan closely about his contract with Cronin. A long argument followed, and it was finally decided to postpone a decision on the point till afternoon, in order to allow counsel time to present

THE JURY EXCLUDED. When the court resumed its session the jury was excluded, and the matter of striking out Witness McGarry's evidence as to what was said during his visit to O'Sullivan's house on the Sunday following the murder, was taken up. The Court finally decided to exclude all of the evidence in the regard to a former attack on Dr. Cronin. This was not satisfactory to the defense, and another flow of eloquence was the result. Finally the cross-examination of McCarry was resumed.

Joseph C. O'Keefe, Dr. Cronin's tailor, said he attended a meeting of Camp 20 in September, 1888. After the meeting he had a conversation with defendant Beggs about Dr. Cronin and Alexander Sullivan; said

"We were speaking first in reference to the union of the two rival factions of the order, and John F. Beggs said he did not have much confidence in the new executive that was elected. Then the trial committee came under discussion, and he said that Dr. Cronin was

Aaron Goldman, collector for the same firm, testified that the rooms at 117 Clark street were occupied on the 19th of March last, but that on the 21st he found them vacant. James M. Marshall, of the firm which controlled the renting of No. 117 Clark street, testified to that fact. The court then adjourned till to-morrow.

An afternoon paper says that soon after the disappearance of Dr. Cronin the State put spies upon Camp 20, and that a man was concealed in the hall during some of its meetings and took notes.

THAT MISSING WITNESS.

Grent Excitement in Peerin Because of the Disappearance of Spellman. PERCIAL TELEGRAM TO THE DISPATCH.

PEORIA, ILL., October 31 .- Ed Spellman, the district delegate of the Clan-na-Gael, who is wanted as a witness in the Cronin case, is still missing, and his absence is creating no little excitement in this city among his friends, who have already begun to charge all sorts of things concerning his disappearance. Before Sheriff Matson left here last night he gave the Sheriff of this county the bench warrant which Judge McConnell issued for the Peorian. In case he turns up here he will be arrested, placed in jail and the Cook county authorities notified. Spellhis business in that place he informed his family by mail that he was going farther East, and was not fully determined on his future movements.

That was nearly two weeks ago and nothing has been heard about him since. His family is decidedly uneasy about him, especially since it is learned that he promised Judge Longenecker that he would respond promptly to any telegram or other message informing him that his presence in Cook county was desired. Some of his most intimate personal friends assert that he was prevailed upon either by threats or entreaties to leave the city, and remain concealed until the end of the Cronin conceased until the end of the Cronin case. The letters which Beggs wrote to Spellmar are in the hands of the prosecution as evidence. Great influence has been brought to bear on him of late, and he is said to have often regretted furnishing Judge Longenecker with the Beggs corre-

PRISONER GILLETTE'S STORY.

He Asserts That Burke Teld Him All About the Cronin Crime.

WINNIPEG, MAN., October 31 .- To-day Chicago, and Lawyer Howell elicited entirely new and important information from Gillette, the fellow prisoner of the Cronin in jail. Gillette says Burke told him the plot had been to decoy Dr. Cronin from his house through Coughlin and a woman. Burke admitted that he was soft on this woman and she was also soft on Coughlin. Afterward Coughlin changed the plan and decoyed Cronin by means of O'Sullivan's business card. The woman in the case kept lodgings in Chicago on North Clark street, near Chicago avenue, Burke said this woman had promised to marry him. As well as Gillette could remember

Burke mentioned associates with himself in the affair, Coughlin, Cooney and O'Sulli-van. The intention was to sink the body in the lake, but a confederate who was to meet them with a boat failed to keep his appointment. Burke went twice to a lawyer's office on Dearborn street, Chicago, and there got money for doing the job, so Gil-lette says. The clothes of Cronin were brought to Winnipeg by Burke and hidden in a house on Valentine street. Gillette was pressed to say whether Burke had ever mentioned Alexander Sullivan. The pris-proversid Burke had once or twice referred to oner said Burke had onee or twice referred to to Gov. Ogleaby's Speech. SPRINGFIELD, ILL., October 31 .- The Pan-American excursion arrived here today. After lunch the party went to Lincoln's tomb in Oak Ridge Cemetery. There was among the Southern delegates a spirit almost of reverence as they ascended the steps to the terrace about the shaft. As was remarked by one of the Southern delegates, Lincoln's tomb seemed to him like a Mecca and the present pilgrimage could not have been complete without having led thither.

As with a common impulse heads were bared as the party walked about the monu-

At length the party was gathered at the front of the monument upon a spot upon which the statue of Lincoln bent his gaze, and Senator Cullom introduced ex-Governor Richard J. Oglesby, who said that the vis-itors might be indulgent toward the people of Illinois for giving expression upon almost all occasions to their deep sense of admiration and love for the great patriot, the great emancipator whose memory they honored to-day.

While ex-Governor Oglesby was speaking of Linceln's life Bolet Peraza, who was to respond, stood within reach of his hand, and frequently his face paled and his eyes were dimmed by emotion aroused, and when the ex-Governor fervently asked, "Why should we not be friends?" Signor Peraza and others lifted their faces with exressions of approval and applauded armly. General Bolet Peraza is a son-inlaw of General Jose Gregorio Monagas, who was President of Venezuela in 1884 and made the slaves free at that time, and this fact was stated by Senator Cullom, who introduced him to the audience. General Gentlemen, do not be surprised by the contrast which my colleagues present to you at this solemn occasion in selecting the humblest orator to praise the greatest man of your country in the present century. They have not sought the merits of eloquence, but the circumstances of opportunity. They have excused my deficiencies and only thought of my family associations with one of the liberated of our America, who, like you here, made siares free and deserved the glory of martyrdom. It is not, then, my voice which speaks at this moment. It is the echo of a noble soul, who shares with your great man the immortality bestowed by the God of Justice on the defenders of mankind. Fifteen free American nations join in this sanctuary to pay their homage to this tomb, which contains nothing but a handful of dust, all that in Abraham Lincoln belongs to death, as his real man mothing but a handful of dust, all that in Abraham Lincoln belongs to death, as his real mausoleum is in the heart of men. Our visit to this sacred monument is not a mere individual ribute, but a significant pilgrimage of sovereign sister nations, which come here in the name of liberty, equality and fraternity, to satisfy their firm purpose of continuing the work of this great Northern leveler, unifying the interests of the entire America and consolidating her aspirations to the future, tearing down the traditional walls which rise in the natural way of her industrial conveniences, leaving standing only the frontiers of the respective sovereignties built by natural respect.

The Home was visited yesterday afternoon by Messrs. Roberts and Sawyer, members of the State Board of Charities. They had not been in the house for two years. They expressed surprise and gratification at the many improvements visible, and highly praised the work which Mr. Druitt has been doing.

THE LOTUS' BLOW

The Lotus Club, of the Southside, celebrated Halloween in their customary happy and enjoyable style. The members congregated at the elegant club rooms on Carso street, and spent the fore part of the evening o'clock the lights were extinguished and each member, under a heavy, and, not to give the "anap" entirely away, not a very pleasant penalty, told an original ghost tory. story. The man who ventured to relate an old story was dealt with according to the laws governing the affair. Dr. E. A. Wood, Dr. Gundlach, Alderman McGeary, C. H. Stolzenbach and ex-Register Hoerr, had especially prepared stories, and during the time they were being told real ghosts were supposed to appear in the room. The affair was exclusively for the members of the club, and none others were admitted.

Halloween was celebrated in good old-fashioned style in Lawrenceville. The boys congregated before the various grocery stores, blowing unmusical borns until the proprietors were forced to throw into the crowd bags full of nuts and cakes, so that they would cease distracting the neighbor-hood with discordant noises.

In this usually quiet district the people again discovered that the ubiquitous small boy is alive and kicking. When they passed out late at night from the kitchen into the back yard the distance between the floor of the apartment and the surface of the yard was considerably lengthened. Instead of putting their foot lengthened. Instead of putting their foot, as is their wonted practice, on the first platform of the steps, they found themselves rudely precipitated into the yard below without any apologies. From the usual sedate householders a torrent of execration was poured on the youthful celebrator of Halloween. The air was rent on one side with the indirections of approved according to the production of approved according to the contractions of approved according to the contraction of the contractions of a providers and the contraction of the cont with the indignations of annoyed proprie-tors of steps and rippled with the laughter of the youthful onlooker of their parents'

The chief promised them speedy relief, and on their departure sat down in his chair, laughed till his sides ached and remarked: "This is Halloween; I was a boy once myself."

BLEEDING KANSAS.

Religious War Broaks Out in an Interior Town-The Militia Called Out to Preserve the Pence-Cause of the Trouble.

TOPEKA, KAN., October 31,-Adjutant General Roberts received a telegram to-day notifying him of a riot at Axtell, Marshall county. The telegram was from the Mayor of the city, and asked that a detachment of militia be sent to quell the disturbance. The Adjutant General at once ordered out Company G of the Third Regiment, located at Marysville, and left on the first train for at Marysville, and left on the first train for the scene of the trouble. As yet only meager particulars have been received. Axtell, a town of about 700 people, is settled largely by Catholics. On Wednes-day a Methodist minister named Johnson, from the Eastern part of the State, arrived at Axtell to hold a revival meeting. He at Axtell to hold a revival meeting. He had quite a large convention in the evening at the Methodist church, and in the andience were a number of Catholics. Soon after beginning he made an attack upon the Catholic Church. He became so abusive that one of the Catholics present called him a liar. He continued his remarks until the Catholics could stand it no longer. Four of them rushed to the pulpit, and taking the preacher by the collar threw him down. In a moment the pulpit was surrounded by an angry mob, and a general melee resulted.

Although the Catholics were in the mi nority, they were too much for the Methodists, and succeeded in throwing the preacher and two others out of the house. The whole town was soon aroused. Four Catholics were arrested and put in the city prison. This so enraged the Catholic population that they organized to assist their imprisoned associates. The town of St. Bridget, a few miles distant, is settled entirely by Catholics, and it is re-ported that the whole town is organizing to go to the rescue of Axtell Catholics. The Mayor says he is powerless to control the mob, and fears a conflict between the two dent Will Keep His Pledges. (SPECIAL TELEGRAM TO THE DISPATCH.

NEW YORK, October 31 .- Senator His ook was the principal speaker at a meeting of Republicans in the Brooklyn Academy of Music to-night. He defended President Harrison against the charge that he had not kept his pledge to observe the civil service law. He said that the removals made by the President were necessary because the preceding administration had filled the offices with incompetent had filled the offices with incompetent men, whose salaries went to swell the cor-ruption fund. "A court is soon to con-vene," he said, "with power to investigate these things which I have closed and when it shall have closed its investigation a volume will not be sufficient to contain the instances of corruption and malfessance in office, of of corruption and malfessance in office, of which the last administration was guilty. I have but feebly portrayed what will be divulged by this investigating committee." Speaking of the composition of the coming Congress, Senator Hiscock said: "Quite a proportion of it holds title to seats by frand, violence or murder."

WELL FILLED AND SATISPIED. Boy Who Was Stuffed to Make Him Behave as He Should.

Chicago Heraid.] James P. Root, late of Hyde Park, believes in bringing up children in the way they should go. "I know how it is myself," he said the other day, as he spoke of this matter. "When I was a boy." he continued, "I had a most ravenous appetite, like all healthy boys. My dear mother was great on training and etiquette, and she had me at her afternoon teas. Now, tea was a little light for me then and she knew it, so just before the tea she would quietly lead me

THE MOONSTONE IN PASHION. Facts About a Peculiar Gem That Abound in Far Off India.

"The word 'preclous' cannot be applied to moonstones," said a well-known dealer in jewelry, "because their marketable value is relatively small at all times, and it is still further influenced by the decrees of fashion. For some years past we have had but few calls for moonstones, but about 12 months ago they were restored to popular favor, and will probably continue to be much used for some time to come. The stones come proportion of it holds title to seats by fraud, violence or murder."

A. W. Tenney, who presided, preceded Senator Hiscock, and W. H. Williams followed. A good many women were on the stags or in the boxes. Between the speeches a band played and a giee club sang a song whose refrain was: "Good-By, Mayor Chapin, Good-By."

for some time to come. The stones coma from India, are easily procured, and there is but little waste in cutting. They are almost invariably of a bluish white tint, the rays of the most perfect stones much resembling moonlight (hence the name), those of a less clear or yellowish hus being of but little value. When carved, the clear device, and a baby's face surrounded with a cap of pearls or diamends another.

The moonstone is seldom worn alone by fashionable people having usually an accompanying setting of diamends or other precious stones. In response to a question the dealer added: "The largest moonstone I have ever seen was one of oblong shape about 1½ inches in length and ½ of an inch in width. This was set to represent a butterfly with partially closed wings of brilliantly colored stones, and was intended to be worn as a pendant. These stones are not valued by weight as others are, but simply by appearance and size, a perfectly round stone being more desirable than a flatter one and morer are."

GLORY-BY-NIGHT'S NAME. The Queer Appellation Given a Frenchs by Connections Yankees.

The New York Post some time ago had a number of communications bearing upon the singular transformations which the names of Canadians undergo in this country, and a number of rather extraordinary instances were given. To that list may be added one related by a priest in Connecticut, in whose parish are a number of French Canadians. One day a man came to him to arrange for his approaching marriage, and the priest, who did not recognize him, asked his name.

"My-glory-by-night," replied the man,
with every appearance of good faith.
He did not speak English very fluently, and the priest supposed that he must have misunderstood. "Your name, I said," he repeated. "What

My-glory-by-night," the man said "You can't have such a name as that," the priest said, "somebody has translated it wrongly for you. What is it in French?" "Magloire Benoit," the man answered. It was easy to see how the extraordinary combination with which the man announced himself had been come at. The good people of Connecticut had pronounced "Benoit" phonetically, and translation had done the rest.
